Welcome to Ordnance Survey’s Style Guide. These guidelines apply to all customers who have a current contract in place with us.

Inside you’ll find all the information you need to help you understand how and when to use our copyright acknowledgements, logos and legends.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

You must clearly show one of the following acknowledgements in a prominent position on reproductions of OS data, for example, on a plot or view of data, the contents page of a book, the opening screen of a device, within the terms and conditions of your service.

Acknowledgements must be used at a minimum of 6 point size with 7 point leading. On electronic map extracts, Arial® should be used as the font. On printed map extracts, Source Sans Pro should be the font used.

© Crown copyright and database rights (insert year) OS (licence number)

or the Welsh language equivalent where relevant

@ Hwlfraint y Goron a hawliau cronfa ddata (mewnodos y flwyddyn) OS (rhif y drwydded)

The year is the date that you receive the digital data or the date of publication for paper products.

You can find your licence number in a copy of your contract or on an invoice.

Which licence number?

- If we originally supplied data to you directly, but you now license it from a partner, you should use the partner’s licence number.
- If you originally licensed data from a partner, but now license it directly from us, you should use our licence number.
- If you display or reproduce data supplied directly from OS, together with data licensed from one of our partners, you should use both our licence number and the partner’s licence number.

Partners:

- Where you supply data directly to a customer, they should use your licence number (regardless of whether the data was originally supplied to them directly by OS).
- To avoid any doubt where you sub licence, please ensure that your sub licensees include the copyright and database right acknowledgement with your licence number together with a requirement that any further sub licences do the same.

Partnerships aren’t simply valuable commercial relationships. Together we can shape the future of the GI industry.
This is a specific set of brand guidelines for OS Partners, which apply in addition to the terms of the Framework Contract (Partners) and form part of your contract with OS.

Our brand includes the Ordnance Survey (OS) name, product names (including the words ‘Explorer’ and ‘Landranger’), our logos (‘OS’ logo, ‘OS Partner’ logo, ‘OS Map data’ logo, ‘OS Licensed Mapping’ logo, ‘OS Data’ logo, ‘Powered by OS’ logo) used in whole or part, product designs and layouts, and is protected by both copyright and trademark law.

The term ‘branding’ refers to any packing, cover designs, promotional or advertising content (including online) used in relation to any product or service containing OS data.

Our Partner logos are available for our Partners to show that their products and services include OS content. Designed to help promote our joint partnership and the data we share, in products and services we can both be proud of.
PARTNER BRANDING

While you may promote the use of OS data in your products or services, your branding, taken as a whole, must not:

- Misrepresent your relationship with OS or suggest a wider brand connection.
- Suggest that we endorse your business or any specific product or service.
- Imply that you have exclusive rights or special access to any OS data.
- Make unfair or misleading claims, for example suggest that the data in your product is superior to others which use identical licensed data.
- Copy or bring to mind OS’s distinctive map cover designs, for example lay out a map, web page or book in any way that mimics or appears similar to an OS design or use the distinctive pink and orange colours of our ‘OS Explorer’ or ‘OS Landranger’ products.
- Use any OS product names, trademarks or logos (in whole or part), or use anything similar to OS branding, except for as described in this document.

Your Brand must predominate

- In all cases your own brand must predominate; your own name, trade marks and logos must always be more prominent than our name, trade marks or logos.
REFERENCES TO OS

You may include a general statement that your product or service includes OS data or a more specific statement identifying the actual OS data contained in the product or service (for example ‘Contains OS 1:25 000 Scale Colour Raster data’), as long as it’s used in conjunction with the OS Map data logo, OS Data logo, OS Licensed Mapping logo or Powered by OS logo. Where you are referring to OS in a purely descriptive way, for example, as part of a product description, you may display such a statement without the logos.

About OS

As an OS Partner you may wish to refer to OS on your websites and within promotional materials. If so, please use the following text:

OS is Britain’s mapping agency. As well as making the most up-to-date and accurate maps of the country, it is also a digital business. Together with its Partners it provides content helping governments, companies and individuals to be more effective both here and around the world.

In addition to the above paragraph, you may also use the following optional text:

OS reveals our ever-changing landscape in extraordinary detail, giving the most comprehensive view of Britain.

OS and its Partners share a vision to provide mapping that informs, guides and inspires.
This logo has been created to allow you to describe your status as an OS Partner. It’s designed to be used independently of your products or services whenever you are referring to your organisation, for instance in promotional materials. As appropriate, please choose one of the other logos we have created for use on your product or service.

We encourage you to use the OS Partner logos, but this is not mandatory. However, the copyright acknowledgement is mandatory and must be clearly displayed.

The logo should only be used in a way that makes it clear that it is an accreditation rather than an endorsement of any products and/or services.
There are several variations of the OS logo which you can use to suit background colour or your company’s branding. However, do not change the colours if you’re using the full colour version of the logo.

This logo can be used whenever you’re talking about your organisation, for example, on your website, corporate paperwork, stationery, promotional and display material.

1. The original logo should always be used as downloaded and never recreated.
2. The standard logo may be no less than 23mm wide. The small logo is to be used at any size below 23mm, to a minimum size of 12mm wide. In digital products the small use logo may be used from 65 to 30 pixels wide.
3. Do not remove or change the logo’s text.
4. Do not distort the logo.
5. Do not rotate the logo.
6. Ensure the logo is always surrounded by an area of clear space, as defined by the proportions shown.
You can use one of four logos as appropriate to your product or service and its packaging to show OS data has been included.

As a guide we suggest ‘OS Map data’ would be suitable for printed products and merchandise. ‘OS Data’ or ‘Powered by OS’ would be suitable for digital products and services.

You may incorporate the ‘OS Data’ or ‘OS Map data’ logo for products and/or services that include digital data incorporating, or derived from, OS data. The OS Licensed Mapping logo is for use only on an item of merchandise where OS map data is visible.
The ‘Powered by’ logo has been designed for display on digital solutions with OS mapping data at their heart.

1. The original logo should always be used as downloaded and never recreated.
2. The standard logo may be no less than 23mm wide. The small logo is to be used at any size below 23mm, to a minimum size of 12mm wide. In digital products the small use logo may be used from 65 to 30 pixels wide.
3. Do not remove or change the logo’s text.

There are several variations of the OS logo which you can use to suit background colour or your company’s branding. However, do not change the colours if you’re using the full colour version of the logo.
The ‘OS Data’ logo has been designed for display on digital products, where OS data has been used as a key ingredient.

1. The original logo should always be used as downloaded and never recreated.
2. The standard logo may be no less than 23mm wide. The small logo is to be used at any size below 23mm, to a minimum size of 12mm wide. In digital products the small use logo may be used from 65 to 30 pixels wide.
3. Do not remove or change the logo’s text.
4. Do not distort the logo.

The ‘OS Map data’ logo has been designed to be displayed where OS map data is visually represented on a physical (printed maps or merchandise) product.

1. The original logo should always be used as downloaded and never recreated.
2. The standard logo may be no less than 23mm wide. The small logo is to be used at any size below 23mm, to a minimum size of 12mm wide. In digital products the small use logo may be used from 65 to 30 pixels wide.
3. Do not remove or change the logo’s text.
4. Do not distort the logo.

The ‘OS Licensed Mapping’ logo has been designed to be displayed where OS map data is visually represented on an item of merchandise.

1. The original logo should always be used as downloaded and never recreated.
2. The standard logo may be no less than 46mm wide. The small logo is to be used at any size below 46mm, to a minimum size of 24mm wide. In digital products the small use logo may be used from 130 to 60 pixels wide.
3. Do not remove or change the logo’s text.
4. Do not distort the logo.
5. Do not rotate the logo.
6. Ensure the logo is always surrounded by an area of clear space, as defined by the proportions shown.

There are several variations of the OS logo which you can use to suit background colour or your company’s branding. However, do not change the colours if you’re using the full colour version of the logo.
OS classifies merchandising products as those which display OS data where the primary purpose is not for use as a map (for example clothing, furniture, stationary, mugs). Before you are able to supply merchandising products you must submit a Merchandising Approval Form to enable us to approve:

- Your product and its design.
- All the images and any text used on the product.
- The use of the OS Map data logo.

Use the ‘OS Map data’ logo or ‘OS Licensed Mapping’ logo where you have created merchandising products using OS data. But when used the logo must be displayed either on, or in close proximity to, the OS data.

OS retains sole discretion to decide whether or not to approve the merchandising product and your proposed use of the ‘OS Map data’ logo or ‘OS Licensed Mapping’ logo.
REFERENCES TO EXPLORER AND LANDRANGER

You are not permitted to refer to ‘Explorer’ or ‘Landranger’ as part of your branding, except in the following limited circumstances:

- Where you are using 1:25 000 Scale Colour Raster or 1:50 000 Scale Colour Raster facsimile mapping within an outdoor leisure product, where the total mapping is less than 20% of the overall content of the printed product, you may refer to ‘OS Explorer’ or ‘OS Landranger’ solely to identify the sheet numbers which are reproduced. For example ‘This product uses the same mapping as OS Explorer sheet number nnn’. Any such use of ‘Explorer’ or ‘Landranger’ must not form a prominent part of your branding (for instance it should not appear on the front cover of a product).
- If you are a licensed retailer, e-tailer or wholesaler of ‘Explorer’ or ‘Landranger’ maps under the Framework Trade Agreement with OS, you may refer to ‘OS Explorer’ or ‘OS Landranger’ as part of those activities.
Under the Printed Products Contract and Navigation, Consumer Applications and Websites Contract, as long as you’re using facsimile mapping created from 1:25 000 Scale Colour Raster or 1:50 000 Scale Colour Raster, you can use the appropriate legend in your products or services. To maintain the integrity of the information, where possible please use the legend in its original format.

Please note you may not use the legends independently from the facsimile mapping to which they relate.
